

I am an XM satellite radio subscriber. I own and use three XM radios. As this is a subscription based service I see no reason that XM should not offer me content that I require of them. As a user of this service when they asked for suggestions on what they could offer to improve their service, I was one of many that mentioned traffic and weather. If the NAB wants to end this service that XM currently provides, I would find this offensive. I do not listen to AM or FM radio any longer unless I have to, primarily due to their lack of content. Every station has the same basic format and near as I can tell they are all owned by just a few companies. XM has allowed me to pick and choose the content that I want based on their offering over 100 stations. Now they also offer traffic and weather and I see no reason for this to end. Tell the NAB to get more creative and maybe they will be more competitive!

Eric Bybee